Dr. Alan Fox

University of Delaware

Alan Fox is a Professor of Asian and Comparative Philosophy and Religion and Psychology of Religion in the Philosophy Department, and former Director of the UD Honors Program, the Master of Arts in Liberal Studies Program, and the Asian Studies Program, and he is currently an Honors Faculty Fellow and Director of the Faculty of the Future Program for the Honors College at the University of Delaware. He earned his BA in Psychology from the Johns Hopkins University in 1977 and worked for several years with chronic schizophrenics before earning his Ph.D. in Religion from Temple University in 1988. He was a Fulbright-Hayes Scholar in Taiwan in 1986-87, arriving at the University of Delaware in 1990. He received the University of Delaware's Excellence in Teaching Award in 1995 and 2006, and the College of Arts and Sciences' Outstanding Teacher Award in 1999. In 2006 he was named US Professor of the Year for the state of Delaware by the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching and the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. In 2012, he was named the first National Teaching Fellow for the American Association of Philosophy Professors. In 2020 he received the inaugural UD Honors College Excellence in Honors Teaching Award. He teaches courses in World Religions, Chinese and Indian Philosophy, Buddhism, Daoism, Religion and Psychology, and Death and Dying. He has published primarily on Chinese Buddhism and Philosophical Daoism, and his translation of the Dao De Jing is scheduled for publication in July 2027.